Sherill Parks Jr. and his sister Jane proudly pose with their father's grand champion bull of the 1959 Mid-South Fair, Memphis. This bull, winner against some of the greatest herds of the breed, will be sold in this sale as Lot 38. The bull was eight months old when this photograph was taken.

The Southeastern Regional Story

by Don Longley

Don Longley, Fieldman for The Shorthorn World, has managed every one of the 25 Southeastern Regional Sales.

We hear a lot about growth these days . . . growth stocks, growth business, growth of the nation's economy. Naturally, everyone wants to be a part of a growth picture. In agriculture, I can't conceive of any situation that offers more growth potential than the production of quality registered Shorthorns or Polled Shorthorns in the Southeast.

First, we must assume that you have a desire to breed something better than the mine run cattle beast . . . a mediocre one of any color will always find a limited market. Then, we assume you will pay attention to the essentials of operating any business . . . and in this case it means taking care of your cattle. Next, and most important, you must have a good product . . . and with Shorthorns or Polled Shorthorns you are on the right road.

Back in the "30's" there was a swing towards smaller cattle . . . and it was hard for the big, rugged, easy-fleshing Shorthorn to "squeeze down" to this size. While there was a definite modernizing trend in Shorthorns . . . and the modern Shorthorn of today clearly shows this . . . the breed was not faced with as great a problem as others in working back up to the size popular today. There can be no question but the today's commercial producer . . . and tomorrow's . . . is and still will be demanding an animal of size and substance . . . along with ability to gain efficiently.

That is the reason for the growth of the Shorthorn breed in recent years in the Southeast. The major consignment sale in this area during this period has been the Southeastern Regional. The graph demonstrates clearly how each year the total numbers in their semi-annual sales have grown. In 1959, we were selling nearly three times the number as just five years before. Yet, this is still just a drop in the bucket, compared to our breed's potential. Not only have we demonstrated that the Southeastern can handle 150 to 200 lots on at least a twice a year basis, but there is a need for many more sales . . . of individual herds . . . of consignor groups . . . to be established to even start to supply the available market. I feel that in 1965, when we look back to 1960, we will see an even greater growth than has taken place in the past five years. Simple mathematics tells that by doubling or tripling a figure like 232 accomplishes a great deal more than doing the same to a start of 95.

One factor stands above all. The average of our sales today are nearly double what they were five years ago. Of course, part of this is due to a rise in the beef market . . . but a great deal of it is because the larger and stronger the sale, the more buyers that attend. This sets up a broader base, creates a better demand at all price levels, particularly on the better cattle.

Demand for bulls continues to grow. It's a two way street. We enjoy a big market from those with commercial cow herds of other breeds for cross-breeding . . . and a growing market among the many who have started registered and commercial Short-horn herds . . . and each year provides an increased backlog of satisfied bull customers who return to this sale for their bulls.

Any bull wrong in his feet, hocks, legs, or testicles to the extent that it would materially impair his service will automatically be placed in the eliminated group.

7:00 p.m. Banquet and Meeting. Everyone invited. Hotel Upson.

Friday, February 26

9:00 a.m. Judging of bull classes.

12 Noon Auction sale begins.

THE OFF GRASS FEMALES

This portion of the Southeastern Regional was instituted in 1956 and has proved highly popular with buyers. There are many well-bred, good quality registered cattle in pasture condition or not halter broken. The sale of these cattle provides an excellent opportunity for cattlemen to buy registered females at prices where they will work out even in a commercial operation. A large number of cows with calves at foot are offered in this section. The sale of the off grass females commences immediately following the sale of the last animal in the show and sale.

Show Classification

We believe this heifer to be an even better individual than her dam was at the time she was reserve champion and the only thing wrong is that she is just too young to sell to advantage. Herd Federally Accredited for Bang's.

The Reynolds Dispersion

J. S. Reynolds, popular Secretary of the Georgia Shorthorn Breeders' Association, is an Eastern Airlines Captain. He has found it necessary to leave the Shorthorn business for the time being, so has decided to disperse his herd through this sale. Because of the limited amount of time he could spend with his cattle, he never intended to have a large herd . . . just wanted a few of the right kind.

In 1957 in the Giddens dispersal of the Maclyn herd, he bought a bull calf split off Edellyn Fairy Queen. This calf, Ocean Twofold Mercury by Calrossie Ocean Wave, later became his herd bull, and sells as Lot 3. In the Giddens dispersal of the Massey-Harris herd in 1958, he bought the great foundation cow Cluny Augusta Carole (Lot 64 in this sale) for $1,225, her daughter Ben Nevis Augusta Carole (Lot 65) for $1,250. Five members of that family in that sale averaged just under $1,000, including a young open heifer. Other top cattle were added to the Reynolds herd from time to time. The entire herd sells. See Lot 3 and Lots 64 through 69.

CLUNY AUGUSTA CAROLE—Undoubtedly one of the great breeding females anywhere. We purchased her for $1,225 in the 1958 Giddens sale and also bought her daughter for $1,250. Five female members of this family averaged just under $1,000 in that sale. She's a real worker, and although she has some age, she sells with an October heifer calf at foot by Ocean Twofold Mercury and is rebred to the same bull, December 5. You can establish a great family by purchasing her.

A few of the females in the Massey-Harris herd purchased by W. E. Giddens, Madison, Georgia, and sold at auction by him in 1958. Lots 64, 65, and 66 from the Reynolds Dispersion all descend from purchases made in the sale of the Massey-Harris herd.

RWR JOAN AUGUSTA—This young cow will improve someone's herd. Has a roan heifer calf at foot by Ocean Twofold Mercury and rebred December 5th to same bull. Calfhooed vaccinated.

These deep bodied cows were sold in the W. E. Giddens sale, Madison, Georgia, April, 1957. More Shorthorn blood is needed in the Southeast to increase livestock efficiency.

THE "OFF GRASS" FEMALE SALE

The off grass female sale was originated in the Southeastern in 1956. In the eight sales since that time approximately 300 female lots have been sold through the off grass section. These have served as the foundation of many good new herds.

Practical cattlemen will be the first to understand that there are many good quality, well bred registered cattle that are not brought up to show condition. In some cases the owners are not set up to fit cattle . . . or possibly can give close attention to only a few head a year. In other cases, a breeder will wish to sell some good producing cows and calves . . . and it would be foolish to possibly impair their future usefulness by bringing them in any other condition except their natural pasture flesh. Many times a breeder will not wish to halter break an animal, thus making it impossible to be a part of the show and sale.

The "off grass" sale not only provides an excellent place for cattlemen to establish registered cow herds at prices where they will work out even on a commercial basis, but it provides a place for our customers to bring back the produce of these cattle and sell them through the Southeastern sales.

By not limiting our female offering to strictly fitted females, the Southeastern has been able to sell from 60 to 110 female lots in each of their sales. The busy cattleman who wishes to establish a herd by purchasing in one sale thus can fill his needs in this sale . . . one or a carload.

The off grass female sale will begin immediately following the last animal in the show and sale. All off grass females are registered, have been bred to registered bulls, papers will be properly transferred to the new owners. They carry the same guarantee as those in the Show and Sale.

MEMO

SHORTHORNS - POLLED SHORTHORNS

Ideally Suited For Most Efficient Southeastern Beef Production

MORE WEIGHT FOR AGE

Because Shorthorns are naturally bigger framed animals . . . and because they have the inherent ability to put on pounds more rapidly . . . the Shorthorn will consistently outweigh and outgain other breeds. Most cattlemen will find a difference of around 50 to 75 pounds at weaning time . . . more spread at later ages.

MORE MILK IN THE BEEF COW

Much of the Southeast's beef production centers around the production of milk-fat steers. The masters who developed the Shorthorn beef breed in Scotland paid close attention to the Shorthorn female's ability to give sufficient milk to carry their calves rapidly to heavy weights.

A Shorthorn or Polled Shorthorn bull in your pasture crossed with cows of other breeds will not only produce hybrid vigor, which in itself contributes to heavier calves . . . but will breed into your productions the natural Shorthorn abilities towards growth and more rapid gains.

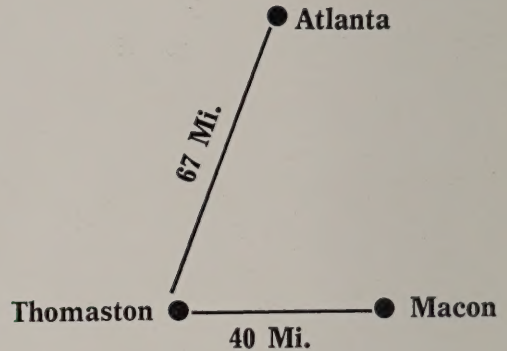

The heifers produced through such cross-breeding will be the "keeping kind" . . . the kind that will be better mothers, giving ample milk for rapid, efficient, beef production.
